DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The new drawings, figures 3A-3C, were received on 04 August 2004. These drawings are accepted.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
3. Claims 1-5, and 7-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Blanchet et al. in view of Mansel.

Blanchet et al. discloses in figures 1 and 2 a wiping device comprising a wiper motor 1; a gear mechanism 4; a gear housing 2; a gear housing cover 3; and an output shaft 10; wherein the gear housing has an opening on a side of the output shaft opposite a side of the output shaft to be connected to a wiper mechanism (see also lines 64-67 of column 3) but does not specifically disclose said output shaft having a crank press-fitted at an end thereof. However, Mansel teaches in figures 1 and 6 and in lines 46-59 of column 1, a crank of a wiping mechanism press-fitted on an output shaft and including a staked connection (see specifically figure 6). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the apparatus of Blanchet et al. in view of the teachings of Mansel that it is old and well known to provide a crank press-fitted on an output shaft of a wiper gear mechanism.

The limitation that the output shaft "can be supported through the opening" for press-fitting of said crank on said output shaft merely limits the claim to the ability to perform such a function. As such the disclosure of Blanchet et al. is applicable.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed 04 August 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In lines 64-67 of column 3, Blanchet et al. discloses that the output shaft 10 "is coupled in the usual way to the screen wipers" at an end of the output shaft that is opposite the end of the output shaft that is located within the housing. That is, the end of the output shaft of Blanchet et al. that is connected to the crank of Mansel is the "lower end (not shown)" in Blanchet et al. Mansel teaches a usual way to connect an output shaft to a crank arm, namely pre-fitting a crank of a wiping mechanism onto an end of a crank shaft. As such, the teachings of Masel are applicable to modify the apparatus of Blanchet et al.

The limitation that the "gear housing has an opening...for supporting the output shaft during the press fit operation" merely limits the crank arm of Blanchet et al. to being able to be (can be) supported through the opening. The opening in the gear housing (covered by the gear housing cover) permits the crankshaft to being supported during the press fit operation.
